Dear Susan:

My husband and I met with a gentleman last night who is in and out of accounting firms in this Detroit metropolitan area. We were discussing the economy, general business conditions and the current condition of our firm. I indicated to him that we were growing at this time and that we were grateful for that growth.

He indicated that of all the firms that he has visited since April 18th, we are the ONLY firm that is experiencing growth. Some are holding even. Many seeing a fall-off in clients served. None were showing an increase in business activity.

Thanks for helping to provide the basis for that profound compliment!

Very truly yours,
